

GROWTH THROUGH GRIEF

When the price of access to the next level of excellence means losing the current version.

Consider priority areas of life, work, performance, relationships, and health. Where do you want to go? What do you want experience? What do you want to accomplish? And what will you have to lose or leave behind to get it?

New great thing I want to experience:	Current reality I'll have to lose: